Places to Visit in Swansea

- Places to visit in Swansea
- Gower Peninsula, Area of Outstanding Beauty
- Gower Coast Path. Full length takes for normal hikers 3 - 4 days. Ultra-Marathon runners can do it one day - link to event. If you want to walk one segment - the closer to Rhossili the better it becomes, but all parts are very beautiful. The last segment will most likely become the excursion, so choose earlier segments.

- Train
 - By train you will arrive usually at Swansea High Street Station.
 - There are some bus services from Swansea Station, but often it is more convenient to take taxi to your hotel or Bay Campus.
 - There is a taxi stand at the right exit of the station (when coming from the trains).

- Or you need to walk to Fabian way and take a bus from there

International Travel

- Please check the Rules for entering the UK carefully.

- Airports
 - Cardiff Airport is closest, but please check transport to/from it especially for early morning and late-night arrivals/departures.
 - You can plan your journey directly using Google maps.
 - There is a shuttle bus to Rhose Cardiff Airport station (Shuttle bus timetable) with trains to Bridgend where you can change for mainline trains to Swansea Station ((Journey planner rail))
 - There is as well a bus to Cardiff Central (Bus timetable\(pdf\)) from which you can take the train to Swansea (please check an online map such as Google maps for how to get from the bus stop to Cardiff Central; Journey planner rail)
 - Bristol Airport second closest airport (check transport for early morning and late-night flights).
 - You can plan your journey directly using Google maps.
 - You need to take the bus to Bristol Temple Meads (Timetable Bus) and then the train to Swansea (Journey planner rail), usually with change at Cardiff Central.
 - Alternatively there are coaches - take bus from Bristol Airport to Bristol Bus Station (Timetable Bus) and from there switch to Coaches (Megabus, National Express, or Flixbus) to Swansea.
 - Heathrow Airport is probably most commonly used airport from Swansea.
 - You can plan your journey directly using Google maps.
 - For trains you can take

- Elizabeth line to Hayes & Harlington, then change for the Elizabeth line to Reading, and then take the mainline trains to Swansea. To see this option (Anton Setzer's preferred option) you need to choose on the Train journey planner (Journey planner rail) the option "avoiding London" (go for advanced search and look for "Route via/avoid" and then avoid London)
 - More expensive, and sometimes a little bit faster, although in many cases you save only a few minutes: Heathrow Express to London Paddington and then (usually direct) train to Swansea (Journey planner rail)
 - Cheaper: Use National Express, Megabus, or Flixbus to Swansea.
- Gatwick Airport (a bit longer journey but still well connected)
 - You can plan your journey directly using Google maps.
 - You can take train either via London or (usually cheaper and less stressful) a train which goes to Reading and from there change to Swansea (National Rail Journey Planner; for getting connection avoiding London use advanced search and choose "Route via/avoid" and then avoid London)
 - You can take as well National Express, Megabus, or Flixbus to Swansea. (Possibly directly from Gatwick Airport to Swansea - this is quite a long journey, but usually much cheaper).
- Other London Airport (Stansted, Luton, London City Airport, London Southend Airport)
 - You can plan your journey directly using Google maps.
 - Usually need to go from there to London
 - Typically quite a long journey (but you might get some cheaper tickets).
 - From Stansted there are direct coaches to Heathrow where you can change for coaches to Swansea.
- Swansea Airport is only usable for private planes at the moment (we had visitors coming that way).
- Train to London Eurostar, Rail Europe
- You can experiment with train to Calais, ferry to Dover, and other ferries from the Continent to Britain.
- Ferry to Portsmouth from north of France (e.g. Caen, St Malo, Cherbourg, Le Havre)
 - Reasonably good train connection from Portsmouth via Cardiff to Swansea.
- Coaches to London
 - Flixbus
 - National Express
